Headline:
Sunny spells with heavy showers developing.

Today:
A bright day with sunny spells but showers are expected to develop this morning. The showers will be occasionally heavy with a risk of hail and thunder, but become largely confined to the Lothians and Borders this afternoon. Light winds. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
Some late sunny then clear spells with showers becoming increasingly confined to the east coast overnight. Risk of a few mist and fog patches developing through the early hours. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Tuesday:
Another day of sunny spells with scattered showers developing. The showers are not expected to be as heavy as recent days and die out from the west later. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Rather cloudy with showers on Wednesday. Bright start on Thursday but cloud, occasionally heavy rain and strengthening winds soon pushing east. Further rain or showers on Friday.
